Dear Cartoon Network Starring Space Ghost:

I immensely enjoyed reading about Space Ghost's first battle with Zorak. It was fun seeing Space Hunter and his wife along with children (Jan and Jayce). It was also cool seeing Blip Sr. was a part of Zorak's "Wotta Felon!" issue. At least the Space Ghost continuum made characters age. I liked seeing a younger version of characters. Space Ghost's trip down memory lane added another dimension to the Space Ghost heritage.

I laughed at the way Space Ghost solved the problem of Mr. Clumsy Doll. It was very predictable having Tad trip and break the Universe Obliterating Orb. Tad must have the got the Clumsy Syndrome from Mr. Clumsy. Ha! Ha!

Thankfully Jan and Jayce Hunter were able to rescue their parents from Zorak. It was quickly over for Zorak and his accomplices. The Hunter kids did a great job in assisting Space Ghost to free their parents.

Brak's ending segment told me he ought to drink less milk.

I am going to have to remember not to buy any of those Evil Seeds at the end of the issue. It must be another one of Zorak's insane plans which was featured at the end of this issue.

I enjoyed Tad's second appearance in CARTOON NETWORK STARRING more than his first. The first issue set the framework for more stories. I could follow this story better. I felt sorry for the people on the block when they thought Space Ghost had caused problems landing. Zorak and Moltar really knew how to cause problems. Space Ghost should have known better than to let the duo use Phantom Cruiser.

Dear Space Ghost:

Hi! My favorite episode was the one with the giant replicating pods. I also liked the one with Raymond, Zorak's nephew. So, Space Ghost, do you have a favorite guest? I thought it was funny when you hurled Hanson into space. You should have the Backstreet Boys on your show, or better yet, me! Please, Space Ghost, let me be on your show. PPPuuhhlleeaassee. All I've ever wanted is to be on your show. You have to let me on your show!

My sister likes your show, too, and she says hi! Write back and get back to me about your show!

To Whom It May Concern:

I am a sophomore at Troy High School in Fullerton, California. I have always loved cartoons, so I spend most of my TV-watching time on Cartoon Network. Throughout my years of watching, I have come to enjoy certain shows such as Space Ghost Coast to Coast, Johnny Bravo and Cartoon Planet.

I have not seen Cartoon Planet for awhile now, and after checking my local listings I found that it was not scheduled to be on at all. I was wondering whether I just happened to overlook it and it is still on, or if it really was taken off the air. If it was taken off the air, my friends and I will be very disappointed.

As you know by now, David, "Space Ghost Coast to Coast" is running in syndication now, plus you can enjoy Space Ghost specials like the one and only "Brak Show." We know that this show is very different from "Space Ghost Coast to Coast," but you can expect frequent appearances from all of your favorite Space Ghost characters.

Dear Brak (Crab Baby):

Hey, you're the greatest. That's why I drew a portrait of you. I really hope you like it and hang it in your room or something. I wrote to you before, and I was wondering if you really are coming out with a show called "Brak that Crab Coast to Coast"? Because that would really be cool if you did, but I just want to say if you weren't a cartoon character I'd marry you. Please write back. Lots of love and hugs.
